

2022 AIAS International Regional Director Appointment Guidelines

November 7, 2022

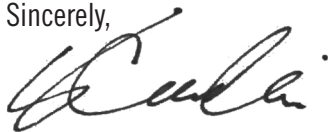

Dear AIAS Member,

Thank you for answering the call to leadership and considering candidacy for a 2023-2024 International Regional Director position. Win or lose, participating in this appointment cycle is an incredibly rewarding and fulfilling opportunity and will provide you with valuable experience. Throughout the appointment proceedings, you will be given opportunities to demonstrate your vision for the organization. The Board of Directors will in turn appoint its International Regional Directors based on their views for our collective future.

In order to ensure the success of the appointment cycle, the AIAS puts forward the following guidelines. The following information is for applicants for the AIAS International Regional Director positions, specifically the AIAS Latin America Regional Director and the AIAS Middle East Regional Director. Any necessary amendments to this document will be posted to the aias.org Elections Page under the About tab. Any and all questions should be directed to Scott Cornelius, AIAS, NOMA, Assoc. AIA, Past President and Elections Chair, via email at pastpresident@aias.org.

The AIAS is a successful organization because of the dedication and passion of its grassroots student leadership. I can personally attest to the incredible influence this organization and this position have had in my life as a student, leader, and emerging professional. If you are interested in applying to serve as a Regional Director, please contact me prior to submission of materials so I can answer questions to all applicants equally. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at pastpresident@aias.org, on Slack, or by text message at (806) 681-1870.

Sincerely,

Scott Cornelius, AIAS, Assoc. AIA
2022-2023 Past President + Elections Chair

INTERNATIONAL REGIONS OVERVIEW

International Regions allow for facilitated communication amongst the international member chapters and between the international member chapters and the Board, thereby forwarding the objectives of the organization, unifying its efforts, and improving administration of its affairs in the various parts of its domain.

At the 2018 Grassroots Board of Directors Meeting, the 2017-2018 Board established the provision for International Regions. This was then ratified by the Council of Presidents at the 2018 Grassroots CoP Meeting. Following this, two AIAS International Regions, AIAS Latin American and AIAS Middle East, were formalized by the 2018-2019 Board of Directors. The 2021-2022 Board of Directors voted to recreate the original International Director positions as Regional Directors, with full voting power on the Board. Further information regarding International Regions can be found in Chapter 2 of the AIAS Bylaws.

SERVING ON THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Appointed Regional Directors will serve an approximately one-year term, beginning on the first day of the 2023 Grassroots Leadership Conference, and ending at the Board of Directors meeting immediately preceding the 2024 Grassroots Leadership Conference. The newly-appointed members of the Board, along with the 2022-2023 President, the six newly-elected members of the Board (President, Vice President, and four Quadrant Directors), Executive Director, and four Liaisons (Appointed by the AIA, NCARB, ACSA, and NOMA), will comprise the 2023-2024 Board of Directors. This group governs the strategic and operational aspects of the AIAS, as representatives of its membership and duly empowered executors of such authority. The Board collectively speaks as the leading authority on issues related to students of architecture and design, design education, and the future of the profession. Information regarding the positions and respective roles of the AIAS Board of Directors can be found in Chapter 3 of the AIAS Bylaws and Chapter 5 of the Rules of the Board.

International Regional Directors serve as voluntary members of the AIAS Board of Directors with full voting power. In this, Regional Directors have an empowering and rewarding opportunity to both serve their peers and advance the organization from a larger platform. That said, the decision to pursue a International Regional Director position should not be taken lightly, as it is a significant commitment to fulfill the obligations and duties described herein and in the governing documents of the AIAS. Failure to perform the obligations of the Director position can result in disciplinary action, including removal from the position.

Finally, members of the Board of Directors will be expected to serve on committees, task forces, and working groups. Appointments to these groups are at the discretion of the President, and are made in conjunction with the Grassroots Leadership Conference commencing their term.

INTERNATIONAL REGIONAL DIRECTOR POSITION SCOPE AND REQUIREMENTS

Appointed Directors of an AIAS International Region will serve a one-year term, beginning on the first day of the 2023 Grassroots Leadership Conference, and ending at the Board of Directors Meeting immediately preceding the 2024 Grassroots Leadership Conference.

The newly-appointed International Regional Directors will serve in the following capacity:

- As members on the Board of Directors with full privileges and voting powers;
- As the main point of contact for chapters in their given Region to field questions, build up chapter relations, assist in membership development, and chapter transitioning;
- As Board Liaisons to the Council of Global Representatives;
- By sharing information between the members in their Region and the National Office (and vice versa);
- By staying up to date with National events and planning through Slack, email, and all other means;
- By writing four reports for the Board of Directors for the Fall, Winter, Spring and Summer BoD Meetings;
- By writing two reports for the Council of Presidents for the Winter and Summer CoP Meetings; and
- By training and transitioning their successor at the end of their term.

Directors must be registered AIAS members of chapters in Good Standing. They are expected to treat their role as comparable in demand to a part-time job or additional intensive course and must be capable of balancing the work inherent in their position with their educational, professional, and family obligations.

As outlined in Chapter 6 of the Bylaws, there are four meetings of the Board of Directors each year, at which attendance (whether in personal or virtual) is optional for Directors. These meetings typically take place in October, December, March, and July. Specific dates of each meeting of the Board will be determined by the President of the Board, in conjunction with the Executive Director. Directors must stay up to date with the work of the National organization and are responsible for International Regional Chapter Reports for the Board Meetings and Council of President Meetings.

In addition to invited attendance of the meetings of the AIAS Board of Directors, International Regional Directors may have subsequent opportunities to participate in meetings and events of both the AIAS and its affiliate organizations.

ADDITIONAL BOARD OF DIRECTORS REQUIREMENTS

In addition to the aforementioned requirements, all members of the Board of Directors are expected to respect and abide by the “Ten Basic Responsibilities of Nonprofit Boards” as illustrated by the National Center for Nonprofit Boards: These responsibilities aim to clarify the roles and responsibilities of the Board as a corporate or collective entity and to summarize individual Board members’ responsibilities. The ten Board responsibilities which follow, along with the individual Board member’s responsibilities, strive to set criteria by which Boards may periodically review their performance and ensure a measure of accountability.

1. Determine the Organization’s Mission and Purpose

The Board’s fundamental responsibility is to satisfy itself that everyone connected directly or indirectly with the organization understands its reasons for existing. This usually takes the form of a written mission statement. In addition to ensuring that the organization has a modern statement of what it is, represents, and does, the Board should periodically review the statement’s adequacy, accuracy, and viability. An adequate statement of mission and purpose should serve as a guide to organizational planning, Board and staff decision-making, volunteer initiatives, and setting priorities among competing demands for scarce resources. It sets the stage for developing fundraising strategies and strategic planning as well as the Board’s many other responsibilities.

What does this mean for you during your term? As a board member, it is important that you constantly evaluate how AIAS is meeting the mission of the organization. Programs, committee work, partnerships, and other activities undertaken by the Board of Directors should align and support the mission of the organization.

2. Select the Executive Director (when necessary)

When necessary, this responsibility undoubtedly has the greatest impact on the organization’s development and effectiveness. While this function may also be shared with others who have a stake in the outcome, the final decision is the Board’s to make.

What does this mean for you during your term? Similar to the President and Vice President roles, the Executive Director position is a contract position with a defined term of service. In general, the Chair of the Personnel Committee is responsible for heading up the search process for a new Executive Director and members of the board may be asked to support the search process. Conducting a search for a new Executive Director often takes several months and a search may be active for 6-12 months before a new candidate is identified and onboarded. This important responsibility is often supported by an external consultant or search firm.

3. Support the Executive Director and Officers, and Review Their Performance

Nowhere else can the chief executive officers seek the kind of moral and substantive support they consistently need except from the Board. The Board as a whole should be satisfied that the Executive Director and Officers:

- + Receive frequent and constructive feedback;
- + Are introduced to other community leaders and organizations;
- + Are invited to important social functions;
- + Are complimented for exceptional initiatives;
- + Are encouraged to take professional and personal leave for renewal;

- + Are assisted when members overstep prerogatives or misunderstand their roles;
- + Feel that the Board is aware of and sensitive to family situations and needs; and
- + Feel that their performance is being assessed in relation to the Board's performance.

What does this mean for you during your term? In order to ensure the Executive Director is meeting the expectations of the Board of Directors, it is important for the Board of Directors to provide both formal and informal feedback to the Executive Director. This responsibility generally falls under the Chair of the Personnel Committee; however, each member of the board will have an opportunity to provide feedback on the performance of the Executive Director. At AIAS, the Board of Directors and staff also have an opportunity to provide feedback on the performance of the President and Vice President, at least twice a year.

4. Ensure Effective Organizational Planning

Planning occurs at various levels within an organization depending on its size and complexity, the attitudes of the executive, staff, and Board concerning its relative importance, and many other circumstances. Planning can be operational (day to day), short term (ad hoc to meet a specific priority), annual (operational), or long range or strategic (comprehensive and very forward looking). It is the Board that should insist on the latter or it seldom gets done, but we should remember that all planning is more art than science.

What does this mean for you during your term? As noted in the first responsibility, one of the most important responsibilities of a non-profit board is to establish the strategic direction of the organization, including programming, membership benefits, financial targets, and external relationships. This ongoing planning process happens during Board of Directors meetings, at the Chapter of Presidents meeting, in Committee Meetings, and in other formal and informal ways.

5. Ensure Adequate Resources

An organization is only as effective as it has the resources to meet its purposes. Many organizations confuse the executive role with the Board's responsibility on this score. It is perfectly appropriate to consider the top executive as the chief fundraiser, but the Board determines what is really possible to achieve. The performance of the Board, executive, and staff is intimately linked to the Board's membership and its ability to open doors, influence potentially large donors, and otherwise monitor and guide fundraising initiatives. Effective fundraising is one measure of the Board's capabilities, commitment and influence.

What does this mean for you during your term? The Board of Directors is responsible for ensuring that the organization's financial resources are utilized in a strategic manner, while also ensuring adequate resources are available to cover expenses and to invest in strategic priorities. While AIAS does not ask board members to make a financial contribution to the organization, the board can contribute in other ways including connecting the Executive Director with partners or stakeholders that may be able to support the mission of the organization. At AIAS, this means ensuring that there is an appropriate investment strategy that is reviewed at least annually and a review of how the organization is performing towards the annual budget.

6. Manage Resources Effectively

An important part of serving the public trust is protecting accumulated assets and ensuring that current income is managed properly. Because organizations are incorporated and granted tax-exempt status by state and federal laws to fulfill a public need, the Board's obligations go well beyond its organization's members, constituents or clients. Board members are in essence the trustees in the literal and legal sense of the term. No matter how the organization is structured or the degree of authority delegated to staff, committees, or affiliates, the Board and therefore the individual trustees are ultimately accountable. The Board has the principal responsibility for fulfillment of the organization's mission and the legal/fiduciary accountability for its operations. Boards traditionally exercise this responsibility by helping to develop and approve the annual budget, among other actions.

What does this mean for you during your term? At AIAS, this means ensuring that there is an appropriate investment strategy that is reviewed at least annually and a review of how the organization is performing towards the annual budget. The Executive Director is responsible for providing regular updates to the Finance Committee and the full Board of Directors, including a formal presentation of the annual operating budget, the formal audit results, the performance of the investment portfolio, and other financial matters deemed to be relevant.

7. Determine and Monitor the Organization's Programs and Services

The Board's fundamental role begins with the question of whether current and proposed programs and services are consistent with the organization's stated mission and purposes. Given limited resources and unlimited demands on them, the Board must decide among competing priorities. Financial and programmatic decisions should not be made independently. The Board should have a good sense of its monitoring and oversight role by seeking a balance between the Board's responsibility to ensure quality, cost-effective programs and services, and the staff's responsibility to creatively initiate and conduct them.

What does this mean for you during your term? The mission at AIAS is to advance leadership, design, and service among architecture students. As such, the Board of Directors is responsible for ensuring that the programs are in support of this mission, but equally as important is that the programs are delivered in a high-quality, effective manner while making a positive impact on members. The annual budgeting process is a good time to review programming effectiveness on an organizational level and the Board of Directors should also review the conference and events to ensure the organization is providing quality, cost-effective programs.

8. Enhance the Organization's Public Image

The Board serves as a link between the organization's staff or volunteers and its members, constituents, or clients. In order to ensure a healthy public image for the organization, clearly outlined achievements and contributions to the public good, timely and informative press releases, and consistent communication initiatives with chapter and community leaders are important elements of a comprehensive public relations strategy. In addition, the Board's elected leaders should ensure that the Board appropriately disciplines itself. No Board member should represent himself/herself as speaking for the Board or organization unless specifically authorized to do so.

What does this mean for you during your term? As an AIAS Board Member, it is important to be aware that you serve as the public face and representative of the organization. This means it is vital that you are familiar with the AIAS bylaws, rules of the board, public policy positions, collateral agreements or memorandums of understanding (MOU's), and other governing documents. Board members are encouraged to advocate for positions that are of personal importance, while also recognizing that their primary responsibility is to advocate and support the positions of AIAS and its members.

9. Serve as a Court of Appeal

Solid personnel policies and procedures, grievance protocols and especially clear understanding about the executive's responsibility for hiring, developing, and releasing staff help to ensure appropriateness in this area.

What does this mean for you during your term? In rare cases, the Board of Directors may be called upon to intervene in personnel issues or concerns with the performance of the Officers or Executive Director.

APPLICANT QUESTIONNAIRE

1. We all love the AIAS for different reasons, but it takes a critical and constructive analysis of the institutions we appreciate most to continue to evolve them into entities that can support each new generation of membership. Why are you running for a position on the AIAS Board of Directors? What about the organization and its membership motivates you to seek a leadership position?
2. Describe your leadership style. Explain how previous experiences working with teams have helped you discover your leadership style.
3. In recent years, the AIAS has increased its efforts in advocacy for architecture students on issues including but not limited to health and wellness, equity, student loan debt, Learning & Teaching Culture, practice experience, leadership, and technology. What one issue do you personally find the most important? How would you make progress on this issue as an elected leader on the AIAS National Board of Directors?
4. The AIAS has over 250 chapters across the U.S. and around the world, ranging in size, age range, and even purpose. How would you use your position on the Board to better connect and engage our geographically and culturally diverse membership? What resources would you propose to better serve Chapter leaders seeking to grow their chapters and connect to other students around the world?
5. Our International Regions are small, but mighty and continuously growing. Describe how you intend to fulfill the roles and responsibilities of a Regional Director and help the regions continue to grow and connect to the larger organization. Elaborate on your intended communication/action plan and the primary goals you have for your one-year term.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTURE STUDENTS POLICY ON COMPENSATION FOR INTERNS

In July 1993, the AIAS Board of Directors adopted a "Public Policy on Uncompensated Interns." The policy has been subsequently reviewed and reaffirmed by the Board and reads as follows:

The AIAS maintains that employers must properly compensate all employees. Compensation must be in compliance with the regulations for the jurisdiction in which they are working.

In 2010, AIAS crafted a public statement on intern compensation in conjunction with the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and the American Institute of Architects, which reads as follows:

The Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, the American Institute of Architects, and the American Institute of Architecture Students recognize that architects are bound by law and ethics to pay interns, and strongly advocate for the appropriate compensation of architectural students and interns. Because of current economic transformations, some architects have both solicited and accepted the services and labor of interns without pay. We strongly urge architectural firms and other for-profit employers to respect the law and comply with the ethical standards of our profession, and we strongly encourage interns to refuse to accept employment without pay, and to notify the Department of Labor in cases where employers propose such an arrangement. For more information on labor laws and professional ethics, please see the AIA Code of Ethics and the U.S. Labor Department standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The ACSA, AIA, and AIAS further support architects, students, and recent graduate doing pro-bono work. We recognize the distinction between unpaid work for profit-making employers, and unpaid work for non-profit organizations, communities in need, and volunteer activities, which allows participants to determine their own hours and degree of involvement. The AIA has established guidelines for service that are provided on a Pro Bono basis. They can be found under the member section of the AIA website.

POLICY ON COMPENSATION FOR INTERNS AFFIRMATION

As a way of confirming that the AIAS is not promoting or being promoted by architects employing unpaid interns, we ask that each participant in an official AIAS function review and sign the following statement. We appreciate your participation in our event and thank you for your support of our position against unpaid internships. This position is supported as well by the Board of Directors of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture (ACSA) and the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

Name: _____

I do hereby affirm that I understand and support the AIAS policy on the compensation for interns. If I employ interns, I further affirm that I do not use unpaid architectural interns in my professional practice when applicable by federal wage and hour laws.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTURE STUDENTS ELECTIONS CODE OF ETHICS

Elections are a critical step by which the American Institute of Architecture Students is governed. Annual elections, as outlined in the Bylaws and the Rules of the Board, ensure that the membership of the organization participates in the selection of the best candidates to serve on the national Board of Directors.

Individuals elected to the Board of Directors represent the membership and ensure the continued success of the organization. Therefore, participants who are involved in the elections process, including candidates and Board Members, are expected to demonstrate the highest standards of professionalism, integrity, and good judgment.

Confidentiality is required of all participants in the elections process. Participants should not discuss details of the elections process to the general membership before, during or after FORUM. Elections information that is considered public knowledge, and therefore can be shared with the membership, occurs during the General Business Sessions and at the General Assemblies.

Campaigning is strictly prohibited prior to FORUM. Conversation between chapters regarding candidates should not take place. Campaigning will only begin at the first General Assembly of FORUM.

Campaigning during FORUM shall be professional. Candidates and candidate support groups should be respectful in their campaigning efforts. Disrespectful campaigning will be a violation of the Elections Code of Ethics, and will be grounds for immediate review by the Past President.

Campaigning materials should follow the Election Guidelines, and should be distributed in appropriate venues only. Appropriate venues include FORUM General Business Sessions, General Assemblies, and Quad Breakouts.

As leaders of this organization, and future leaders of this profession, we must uphold the highest ethical practice. Questionable behavior during elections will not be tolerated. Any concerns should be immediately raised with the Past President.

ELECTIONS CODE OF ETHICS AFFIRMATION

To promote the highest level of professionalism during elections, we ask that each participant in the elections process review and sign the following statement. We appreciate your participation and thank you for your support and dedication to the organization.

Name: _____

I do hereby affirm that I have read, understand and agree to abide by the AIAS Elections Code of Ethics and the Elections Guidelines.

Signature: _____

Date: _____

Please submit this form with your confirmation for participation.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTURE STUDENTS CANDIDATE CONTACT INFORMATION FORM

Candidate contact information will only be used by the Past President to communicate elections-related information. If provided, social media handles will be shared when candidates are posted publicly on AIAS website and social media.
